PRAIRIE FARM SCENE OF COUNTRY PICNIC ON DECORATION DAY

Prairie Farm, Barron County, Place for Gathering of Farmers and Families on Memorial Day.

Madison, Wis., June 7.—Prairie Farm, Barron County, Wisconsin, home of Senator George E. Scott, has received wide fame as a center of progressive stockkeeping, and its penchant for doing distinctive things has assumed unique form in its observance of Memorial Day. In fact, Prairie Farm has taken the initiative in what may some day prove to be a movement for a new Memorial Day. From a zone fourteen miles in diameter come the farmers of Barron county with their families to Prairie Farm to spend the day in a big country picnic, one-half of the day being devoted to stirring appeals to patriotism and good citizenship by well known speakers, the whole crowd—approximately four thousand—being assembled in a huge circus tent bought and owned by the school children of the county.

Two years ago the orator on this occasion was Tax Commissioner Nels Hagen of Madison. Last year Senator Hazelwood of Jefferson spoke, and in 1911 the orator was Speaker Charles A. Ingram of the Wisconsin assembly.

The plan originated six years ago. Three years ago the school children bought a huge two-ring tent and last year enlarged it, so that today it will accommodate four thousand persons.

The money was raised by voluntary contributions, $350 being subscribed for the tent and a fund for seats started that made the ultimate sum nearly $700. They now propose to raise enough more to erect monuments, at Vaneburg and, Prairie Farm cemeteries. Among those interested in promoting this unusual movement were William Hager, one of the old veterans; F. S. Woodard, Magnus Larson, Sven Anderson and Senator George E. Scott.

The teachers of the several schools in Barron county and adjoining districts meet in convention in February each year in order to prepare for the participation of their schools in the exercises on Memorial Day. On the last occasion sixteen schools were represented—twenty-two four-horse decorated floats, making a procession nearly a mile long. Some of these children came with their floats from their homes fourteen miles away. Each school provided a permanent float, covered with canvas to exclude the rain and needless to say, each school vies with the other to outdo them in decorating its wagon. Two are flower wagons. Some of the floats are more than ordinarily magnificent for such a parade. The money is raised by public entertainments or other means for the purchase of the wagons and to provide for the necessary tents.

On one side of the mammoth tent is erected a huge platform and at the other side are seats erected as in a circus tent. In the center are folding opera chairs.

Upon the arrival of the wagons in the village of Prairie Farm they are formed in a procession leading to the cemetery, where the graves of old soldiers are decorated. Upon their return to the tent the parade disbands and the crowd resolves itself into a huge picnic party, a dinner being held at noon. In the afternoon the exercises are held in the tent, consisting usually of an address by an outside orator and numbers contributed by each of the schools of Barron county. The crowd at last week's exercises was variously estimated at from 3,500 to 4,000.

During the day a committee for next year's program is elected. Twenty school boards in the county are intensely interested in the event as a worthy pupil.

DRAINAGE MATTER UP FOR HEARING JULY 6

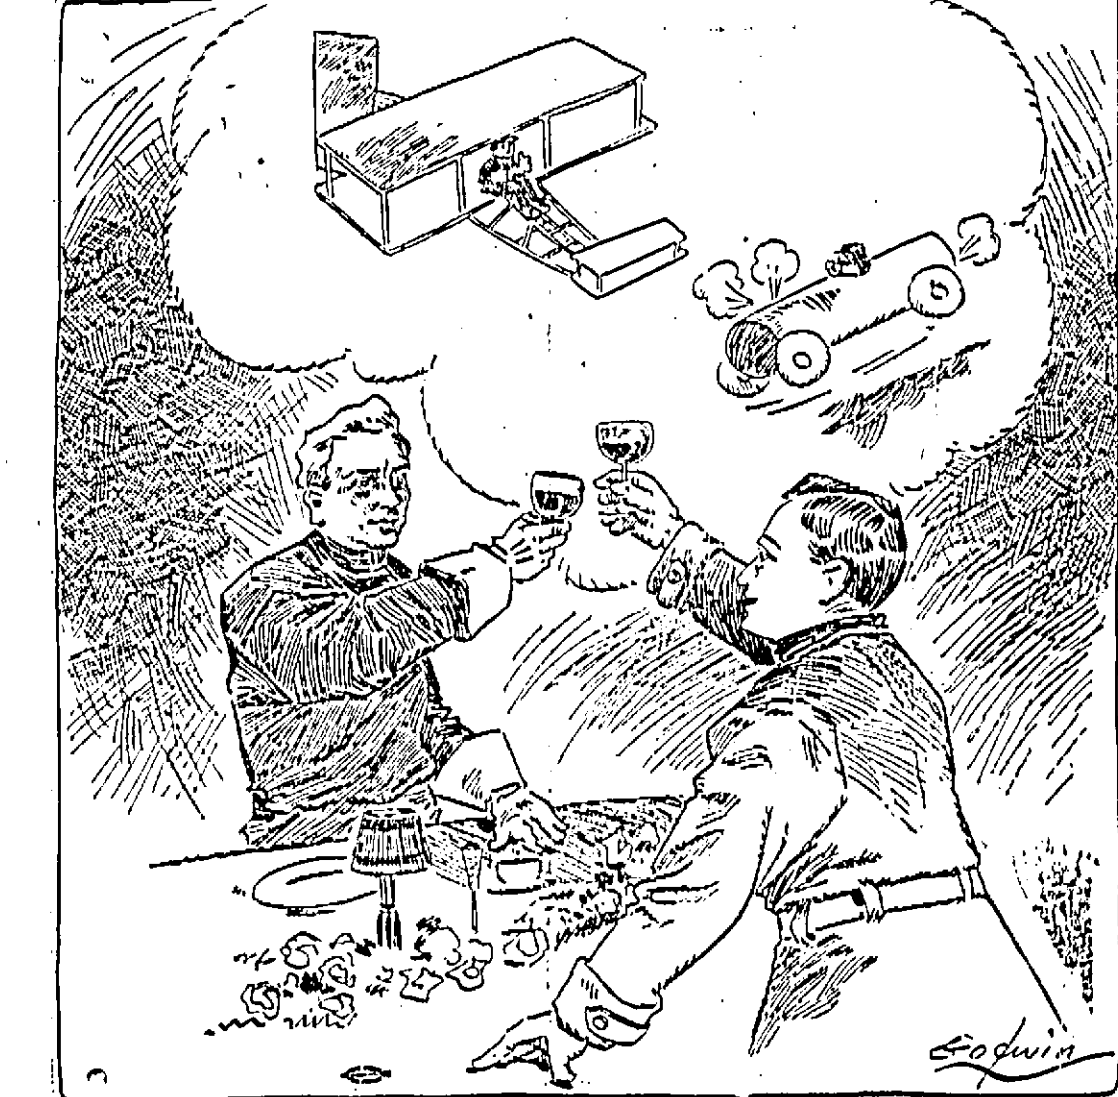

Final filing of papers in the matter of the Stokes Drainage district has been made at the office of the clerk of the circuit court, including the report of the commissioners, and the final hearing of the petition by Judge Grinn has been set for July 6, at 11 o'clock in the morning.

This district comprised the land of about fifty farmers in the town of Avon and the action to cause a system of lateral drains was instituted about one year ago. The welfare of the public health, general benefit to the community and the enhancing of the value of the land are the reasons advanced by the commissioners in their report and prayer for the granting of the petition. It is expected that the move will make tillable many acres now in poor condition.

The first papers were filed in May, 1910, and the following month three commissioners were appointed, consisting of O. P. Gardner, Leo Bright and Joseph Ross. These, together with the report of the commissioners, were filed Monday and Tuesday by Burr Sprague of Brookfield and the date set for the hearing in the circuit court.

SON MISSING FROM THE REARDON HOME

Raymond Reardon Left Home Yesterday Morning And Has Not Been Seen Since.

Raymond Reardon, 16 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Reardon, has been absent from his home on Wall street since yesterday morning, and nothing is known of his whereabouts. According to the statement of his father, who is foreman of the bridge and building crew of the Northwestern road, this morning the reason for his disappearance is largely a mystery. It is said that he was with Herbert Cloyd in his trip from Clinton Junction to Janesville, Sunday night, stealing a ride on the steps beneath the platform of the car. Young Reardon rode on the car next to Cloyd, it is alleged.

When charged by his father with stealing the ride the youth denied the fact, but Cloyd subsequently told the father otherwise. When confronted with the denial by his parent the boy became alarmed and other people made threats from which the lad took unnecessary alarm.

He did not appear at dinner yesterday nor for supper last evening, and had not been located at a late hour this afternoon. It is believed that he may have gone over to Beaver Dam, Milwaukee or Kaukauna, where he has relatives or friends. He had a small amount of money which would have made possible a trip of some distance.

Young Reardon is sixteen years old and is a member of the freshman class in the high school. He is described as being short, about four feet five inches tall, and weighing between ninety and a hundred pounds. He is light complexioned and wore an olive green suit and light colored cap. He had always been obedient and reliable and his disappearance is causing his parents a good deal of worry.

STREET CONCESSION MATTER IS DECIDED

BART J. RUDDLE AND CHIEF OF POLICE APPELBY WILL HAVE CHARGE OF THEM.

BATTERY HERE JULY 2

Word Received That Battery F of the Fifth United States Field Artillery and Headquarters Band Will Arrive for Celebration.

At the meeting of the joint committee of the Industrial and Commercial club and the United Spanish War Veterans with Mayor John C. Nichols, members of the common council highway committee, City Attorney Harry Maxfield and Chief of Police Appelby at the mayor's office last evening, the question of the street concessions for the big military demonstration was decided upon.

At a recent meeting of the council the use of the streets was given the United Spanish War Veterans for the three days under the direction of the chief of police and the highway committee of the council. The meeting last evening was most interesting and decided what class of shows and what concessions should be permitted. As this is one of the important sources of revenue for the committee they have engaged Bart J. Ruddle of Milwaukee to take entire charge of it. Mr. Ruddle was present last evening and talked to the committee and the council committee as to how he would like to handle the matter.

Mayor Nichols expressed the sentiment of the council, and of the committee, when he stated he wished it understood that no paddle-wheels, fish ponds, cigar games on wheels, or any device that resembled gambling should be permitted on the streets. The question of locating the stands was also taken up and all stands must be outside the curb line of the sidewalk.

The council having granted the use of the streets to the committee, no stands will be allowed along the sides of buildings unless such building stands back from the street line, which is true only in a few store fronts on Milwaukee and Main streets. The matter of the granting and collecting for the concessions was left entirely in the hands of Mr. Ruddle, who will act with the chief of police in this matter.

So many applications for concessions have been already received that it was deemed best to set a date for the letting of them, and June 15th was decided upon. Mr. Ruddle will be here on that date at the committee's headquarters at the corner of Milwaukee and Bluff streets, with the plot of the streets and prices all arranged and ready to issue the permits for the three days. No one else has any authority to issue a permit and the matter is left entirely in his hands.

Should any of the proposed concessionists want further information or desire to make early application they may address Mr. Ruddle in Milwaukee, which will reach him without any street number or business address. The early applications will be put on file and handled first on the 15th.

It was also decided to open a bureau of information at the headquarters where persons having rooms for rent can list them free of charge, and persons seeking such places during the rush days of the celebration can be directed where to go. There is no doubt that there will be plenty of opportunity for property-owners having a spare room to rent it for all three days at a good figure. It might be well, however, to write friends and relatives to who if they are planning a visit at this time so as to be sure to have the room free to rent.

The headquarters will be opened June 15th in the building at the corner of Milwaukee and South Bluff streets, donated by P. L. Myers for the use of the committee, and will be the place where all concessions are let, where the bureau of information is to be located, and the quartermaster's headquarters are. It will be in charge of a competent man.

Reports from the military committee last evening showed that there will be plenty of soldiers here for the celebration. The list, as complete, now comprises the following infantry companies: Co. A, Milwaukee; Co. B, Ft. Atkinson; Co. C, Whitewater; Co. D, Milwaukee; Company E, Milwaukee; Company F, Milwaukee; Company H, Monroe; and Co. L, Beloit. These troops will be under command of Lieutenant Colonel Stearns of Monroe and Major Rossman of Beloit. The Beloit and Whitewater companies will reach the city on Monday and will go into camp at once. A third company will be quartered in the city hall to act as provost guard to aid Chief of Police Appelby.

Battery A of Milwaukee will come on a special train on Monday, direct from their armory at Whitfield Bay, Milwaukee. They will have four guns and fifty-nine horses and go into camp at once. This battery has one hundred and two men and is one of the crack batteries of the state militia throughout the United States.

This morning the following copy of the letter from Gen. F. C. Ahnworth, Adjutant General U. S. A., War Department, Washington, to Congressman Cooper, was received. The letter was relative to the detail of a battery and band to Janesville for the celebration. It is as follows:

"I have the honor to inform you that the commanding officer of the Department of the Lakes, Chicago, Ill., has been directed today to issue instructions for the Headquarters Band, and Battery F of the 5th Field Artillery, to leave Fort Sheridan in time to arrive in Janesville by the evening of July 2 and to remain there until July 5th, to participate in the ceremonies to be held during that time."

As the headquarters band mentioned is one of the crack musical organizations of the regular army its presence here will add greatly to the affair, and promises to give Janesville some of the best music heard in many years, as the other bands already engaged are also first-class and the music in all parts of the city at the same time should make things lively.

THE SPORT WORLD

Baseball Notes.

Alexander the Great continues to bag games for the Quakers; he is one classy pitcher.

Pittsburg fans figure that the Pirates are due for a winning streak now that they are playing at home.

Tom Fisher, the old Southern League pitcher, is now managing the Auburn team in the Southeastern League.

The Chicago Cubs have signed Southway Bernie Coe of the St. Vincent College team, at Northbrook, Illinois.

Mr. Sylvanus Gregg, the young Cleveland pitcher, has about everything a genuine big league shooter should have.

The pennant-winning New Bedford team is at the bottom of the heap, being helped down by seven husky New England League teams.

If the Detroit Tigers can hold their own during the eastern trip they will be in a good position for a clean-up when they return home.

The champion Athletics started the season poorly, but when they finally caught the step they lost no time in marching to the front.

Bill Bergen is catching good ball for Brooklyn. The way the veteran shoots the ball around the diamond is as fine scenery as the Yosemite Valley.

The Cubs took the lead in the National League on May 25 in 1910, and on May 29 this season, but they are having harder work to stick near the top this year.

In a recent game in Boston Bill Swenney of the Red Sox made a great record. Eleven chances without a bobbie and five hits in five times up, was opposite Bill's name on the score card.

"Young Cy" Young, who has traveled from the minors to the majors, from the majors back to the minors and returned once more to fast society, is pitching the winning kind for the White Sox.

The Columbus team has been a big surprise in the American Association. The Senators were not considered very strong, but they have been straggling the A. A. teams as fast as they could get to them.

Manager McAleer of the Washington team is trying to land Paul Cobb, a brother of the famous Ty Cobb. Young Cobb is playing with the Lincoln team and is said to be the real excitement of the Western League.

WITH THE COXERS.

"Philadelphia Jack" O'Brien's big boxing club in the Quaker City has gone on the rocks.

Reddy Bremon, who fought Jack Everhardt and other noted light-weights, is running a messenger service in Walla Walla, Wash.

LANGUAGES HAVE A PRACTICAL VALUE

Prof. Vlyman of High School Tells Students Greek and Latin Are Great Aids in Preparation For Life Work.

Prof. Vlyman, instructor in Latin and Greek at the local high school, this morning spoke to the students of the "Value of Latin and Greek." He said: "If they have no practical value, why have they been kept as a part of the curriculum of learning since the beginning of civilization? It is because they broaden the depth of the mind of the student. It puts him on an equal footing with his fellow-men. This study of Latin and Greek means hard work and no soft snags. But there are no royal roads to success. For your work you get a development of powers. It strengthens your memory, it broadens your command of the English vocabulary. Ninety per cent of the words in common use are of Latin origin. The doctor's the lawyer's and scientist's vocabulary is Latin. Literature of today is a copy of the old Classics. The studies show that it is the classical students who are the leaders of this land. It has well said that Latin and Greek have no money value, but they are the best money bankers in the world."

Bound to Worry.

"My wife," said a young bonedet, "is so exceedingly anxious at night that she scarcely sleeps at all." "Burglars?" asked an old married man. "Yes." "Well, you have to expect that. My wife was like that. Every time she heard a noise downstairs she'd run out and send me down to investigate. After a time, however, I convinced her that if a burglar did get into the house he would not make any noise at all." "That's rather good!" exclaimed the young one. "I'll try that." "Don't do it," pleaded the other, "for if your wife's anything like mine, she'll worry every time she doesn't hear a noise downstairs."

Once Enough.

The amateur gardener is generally cured by one good dose.

The Development of the Pacific Northwest

To market the products of its fields, forests and waters, the great rich northwest demanded more adequate transportation facilities. Responding to this demand came the Chicago Milwaukee & Puget Sound Railway. With a speed unequalled in engineering annals, the new line was constructed across the Dakotas, Montana, Idaho and Washington, and forms the shortest line between the Great Lakes and the Puget Sound. Freight service has been in operation for over a year and on May 28th, last, through passenger service was inaugurated.

"The Olympian" and "The Columbian" two beautifully equipped new steel trains, are operated daily between Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Aberdeen, Seattle and Tacoma. The route is over the new steel trail of the stopped, and the streets are being neglected, because the aldermen do not feel warranted in filling up the holes with any kind of material at ward expense.

That the privilege has sometimes been abused by building new streets at public expense, is not a debatable question, but it is not reasonable to suppose that the court intended to stop ordinary repairs, in the decision rendered.

THE DECISIONS.

Whether or not the expected effects of the decisions of the United States supreme court relative to the Standard Oil and Tobacco Trusts will be as far-reaching as was hoped by the radical elements that have cried for them for years, remains to be seen. It is too early in the game to understand all the details of the workings of these corporations.

Some of those who would place a stiff curb on the great industrial combines, Mr. Roosevelt prominent among them, are holding that the recent decisions of the supreme court demonstrate the futility of the Sherman law. For quite another reason, those who feel that combination is in the nature of commercial evolution, inevitable and legitimate, the Hon. Elbert H. Gary prominent among them, insist that the Sherman law needs to be supplemented by government control. From Washington we learn, nevertheless, that the decisions in the Standard Oil and American Tobacco cases have been so generally acceptable—have given such assurance of the ability of existing law to take care of the situation—that there has been a virtual cessation of all talk of attempting to amend the Sherman act with the view of strengthening it.

Upon second thought, it is the conservative rather than the radical opinion of the country that seems to be disturbed by the supreme court decisions. That tribunal, of course, talks softly of the rule of reason—of the necessity of safeguarding property rights against unreasonable construction of the anti-trust statute—but it proceeds at the same time to put the Standard Oil company and the American Tobacco company out of business. The court's opinions are gentle, in so far as they relate to the rights of those engaged in commerce and industry to advance their interests along recognized business lines, but mildness is changed to severity the moment the case in point comes up for comment and decision. Each case, the court declares, must be considered upon its individual merits, but in both of the cases that have so far been decided no particular merits seem to have been visible to the tribunal. It is coming to be a question whether the supreme court will find among all the trust cases that may be brought before it any better reason for issuing a clean bill of health than it has found in the two cases already disposed of.

No far as can be seen, there is less doubt among the great majority of thinking men with regard to the adequacy of the Sherman act than there is with regard to the course that may be taken hereafter with reference to its enforcement. There is anything but certainty as to the immunity from its operation of any of the great trusts. It is the system that is really at fault, but it is the individual combination that must stand trial, and it is the individual combine that, if found guilty, must suffer the penalty. In the meantime the offenses against the Sherman law are mostly of the past; the trusts are striving at present to observe its provisions. The point is, being trusts, can they ever wholly escape the commission of offenses against a law calculated to make combination in trade of questionable legality?

THE BOY SCOUTS.

The Boy Scouts movement has reached Janesville and enthusiastic youngsters have been enrolled in the ranks of this youthful organization, which bids fair to solve one of the great problems of modern society—what to do with the youths of today that they may be formed into the men of tomorrow. The Boy Scout movement is one of those organizations that is far-reaching in its influence, it teaches its members to be self-reliant and manly. To tell the truth, to be kind, to learn what to do in an emergency, to think for themselves, and to obey orders. Mr. Jaoko, who has consented to instruct the Janesville corps, has had most excellent training in the regular army and is enthusiastic over military matters. The nucleus of the corps has been formed and when the spirit is fairly developed it will grow in numbers so that every household where there is a boy will be a member and its influence will be felt in more ways than one. It is a good thing and should be encouraged by everyone interested in the welfare of the youths of the city.

The school days will soon be over and the graduates of the upper schools of learning will have turned out their usual list of graduates who will be ready to set the world afire with what they have learned in their four years of college life. It will be an awful awakening for some.

The Milwaukee Merchants' and Manufacturers' association visited Janesville yesterday and learned something about the railway transportation for passengers and freight between this city and Milwaukee. Perhaps when they get back home something will be done to alleviate this condition of affairs.

So Roosevelt has decided that Taft is the man for the place for a second term. Well, it took him long enough to find it out and if he had spoken long ago it would have saved lots of trouble for some ambitious lightning rod agents.

Madero has entered Mexico City, hailed as a deliverer and conqueror. If he does not lose his head he will be able to accomplish some of the reforms he is talking of.

With all the soldiers here during the July holiday the common counsel might pass an ordinance prohibiting the sale of cannon firecrackers and other dangerous explosives for the protection of the life and limbs of Young Americans.

Milwaukee manufacturers and merchants were much pleased with Janesville and so expressed themselves. It is a good thing to have a friendly spirit between the two cities.

The coming three day military celebration for Janesville, July 31, 4th and 5th, promises to be the greatest thing ever held in this city, if the present plans do not miscarry.

Chicago brags of its wonderful summer weather. How about Janesville just at the present time?

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

"WANTED—A BIG BROTHER." That was one of the big signs at the child welfare exhibit held recently in New York.

You who live in the wide open spaces of the countryside or you whose lawns or yards give room for children's joyful play, what do you know of child life in the tenement districts of the big cities?

In those regions live children whose only place is in the foul dark rooms frequently infested with disease or in the streets.

In a single block in New York city live—or exist—2,371 children! The population of a fair sized country seat town of the middle west—children alone, to say nothing of adults—is congested in a district no bigger than the courthouse square, and there is no playground but the street.

And listen! With no other playground, of 717 children arrested in New York in July, 1900, half were arrested for playing games.

The world has wept at the sorrows of "Poor Joe," compelled by the burly policeman to "move on," and here is society in the guise of big patrolmen arresting little children for playing games on the only playground they can have.

Another exhibit showed a sad phase of child life—children forced at a tender age to work in factories and sweat shops.

For instance: Some of the more toilsome work on willow plumes, knitting forty-two separate elements for a cent, or at the age of four and five years they make artificial violets—144 for 2 cents—or they work twelve hours picking beans of coffee from the sweepings.

And they die like flies. Much is being said about the conservation of our natural resources, but how will you compare the material wealth of soil and forest and stream and mine with "a better crop of boys and girls?"

Is a tree worth more than a child? The only hopeful feature of this New York exhibit which finds its parallel in all large cities is that one half the world learns how the other half lives. And to know the awful needs of these neglected children is to find a way for betterment.

"The Big Brother" society—you and I—must be responsible. We are our brother's keeper.

don on every hand, it is a stirring and dazzling scene; and peers to Jolly the king and queen. But the face of the monarch is sad and worn—the face of a man who has seldom laughed; perhaps he thinks it a thing to mourn that he was called to the reigning graft. Perhaps he envies the man who digs, the man who dwells in a humble cot, with his muley row and his bunch of pigs, and his apple tree and his garden plot. He may have dreams of a quiet life, after from diamonds and thrones and silk, with his barefoot kids and his happy wife, who sing while admiring the morning mill. To ride to town on a load of hay and get two pun at the village senile may seem far better than holding away of England, Scotland, and Cork and Wales. To live your life in the blinding glare that beats for you on a throne and crown—ah, better to ride on an old roan mare, and carry three dozen of eggs to town! The faces of kings are always sad, their eyes are heavy, their whiskers gray; their souls are sick of the reigning lid—they'd like to ride on a load of hay.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

By A. W. MACY.

PAUL REVERE MORE THAN A MIDNIGHT RIDER.

Every school boy knows about Paul Revere and his famous ride, "on the eighteenth of April, Seventy-five," but a great many people are not aware that he did anything else worthy of mention. He was not a great man. He was just a plain citizen, but unlike many plain citizens, he was always ready to do his public duty. He was full of energy and of a fiery temper. He was always in the thick of the fight, whatever it might be about, and was usually on the right side. By occupation he was an engraver, and he was also an artist of considerable ability. Many specimens of his work are preserved. In 1789 England's colonial secretary, Lord Hillsborough, directed the Massachusetts assembly to rescind its circular letter protesting against the stamp act. The assembly refused to do so, by a vote of 92 to 17. In the old state house at Boston may be seen a large silver punch bowl which Paul Revere was commissioned to make for "the immortal 92." Nor were the 17 "rescindere" neglected, for there may still be seen a caricature of them, drawn by Revere. It represents them as being driven by devils into the mouth of hell.

For Graduation Gifts

You have doubtless thought already of some one's graduation which you wish fittingly to commemorate with a gift. Undoubtedly the gift for the occasion is a book. It is easy of selection and sure of appreciation, while its cost is relatively small.

We are displaying books suitable for boys and for girls, as well as books of a general appeal for younger graduates. We are showing an unusually large and fresh selection of NEW BOOKS ESPECIALLY ILLUSTRATED FOR THIS PURPOSE.

FORTY-THREE SCOUTS HAVE BEEN ENROLLED

THIRTY-ONE MEMBERS. WERE ADDED TO THE INITIAL TWELVE AT GATHERING LAST NIGHT.

Discussions as to How to Carry on Work and Application Blanks Have Been Received From Headquarters.

At the meeting of the boys interested in the Boy Scout organization at the Lincoln school building yesterday afternoon, thirty-one members were added to the twelve who took the oath on Monday, making the total number in the order in Jansville forty-three.

Under the direction of Capt. Jack, the entire number of the boys turned out last evening for the first practice drill and went through the preliminary movements at the top of Milwaukee street hill. All the youngsters were eager to learn the rudiments of the drills and entered into the work with so much enthusiasm that it will be a short time before the earlier formations will be known.

Mrs. Hyde has received a communication from the Scout Headquarters in New York City giving directions and full information as to the method of proceeding with the work. Certificates of application or enrollment in the order were enclosed and each member will sign a blank which will be sent in to headquarters, and in return the official Scout badge will be forwarded. The regulation blanks for the badges will be filled at once and sent to headquarters and the four-foot insignia after the four-day pattern will be received within a few days. Upon enrollment each Scout receives a certificate with the official seal and the signature of the Scoutmaster.

Price lists for the uniforms are also included and these will be received within several weeks. They consist of the olive drab full hat, the scout coat and breeches made of the Boy Scout olive drab drill, leggings, made of the best waterproof army duck, leather belt, shirt, and other equipment such as hairbrushes, stockings and other accessories. All the uniforms are fitted with the Boy Scout buttons which are patterned and bear the stamp of the Scout badge. The uniforms also bear the official seal of the Boy Scouts of America.

Among other matters it will be necessary to head a certain number of boys with a Scout Master who must be over twenty-one years of age and who will take charge of the boys, directing their activities and who will be responsible for them. These Scout Masters are yet to be selected by the Jansville Scouts.

The following are the members of the Jansville Boy Scouts in the order of their enrollment: Merton Miller, James H. Dixon, Nicholas Homsey, Harry Puchs, Lo Francis, Linus B. The following is the law of the Scouts which must be known by every member before he can take the oath:

The Scout Law.

"1. A scout's honor is to be trusted. If a scout were to break his honor by telling a lie, or by lying carrying out an order exactly, when treated on his honor to do so, he may be directed to hand over his scout badge, and never to wear it again. He may also be directed to cease to be a scout."

"2. A scout is loyal to his parents, his leaders, his country and to all others to whom loyalty is due. He must be helpful to others. He must be prepared at any time to save life or help injured persons. And he must try his best to do a good turn to some body every day."

"3. A scout is a friend to all, and a brother to every other scout. That is, he is polite to all, but especially to women and children, and old people. He must not take any reward for being helpful or courteous."

"4. A scout is a friend to animals. He should save them as far as possible from pain, and should not kill any animal unnecessarily."

"5. A scout obeys orders of his parents, patrol leader or scoutmaster. This is discipline."

"6. A scout smiles and whistles under all circumstances. When he gets an order he should obey it cheerfully and readily, not in a slow haughty sort of way. Scouts never grumble at hardships, nor whine at each other."

"7. A scout is thrifty; that is, he saves every penny he can and puts it into the bank, so that he may have money to use himself when out of work and then not make himself a burden to others; or that he may have money to give away to others when they need it."

Dedrick Bros.A FRIEND TO THE LEPERS

An unusual experience has fallen to the lot of Mr. John Jackson, F. R. G. S. of London, who has spent the last few years in the leper colonies of India and Ceylon. For the past fifteen years his life has been devoted to investigating the needs of these outcast people and pleading their cause in Europe and America.

A recent world tour includes visits to Molokai, Japan, China, Burma, India and Ceylon. He states that outcast lepers of these countries are to be numbered by hundreds of thousands, the majority of them existing in conditions of unrelieved misery. Not only have his travels resulted in wider knowledge of and sympathy with the sufferings of these outcasts, but he has put his experience on record in three volumes, which have had wide circulation both in America and Great Britain.

He is the biographer of Mary Reed, whose touching story of work among the lepers as a leper has inspired thousands of readers. "In Leper Land" contains a graphic record of his great tour of 7,000 miles among the leper colonies of India. On this visit he penetrated into the Himalayas to the frontiers of Tibet and has traversed India from there to Ceylon in the south. It was on his return from this tour that he was elected Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society of England on the nomination of Lord Kinnaird.

His latest and largest work is entitled "Lepers, Thirty-six Years Work Among Them." This has been highly praised by the press as a most pathetic and vivid narrative. He is an experienced lecturer and a gifted speaker. His moving picture films of lepers at work, and of the American missionary treatment of lepers are unique, and have never been exhibited in this country before his present tour.

Mr. Jackson will lecture in the Congregational church Friday evening, June 9, under the auspices of the Evangelical churches of the city, to which lecture all citizens of Jansville are cordially invited without distinction of creed or race.

Pictures will be exhibited.

LINK AND PIN. MAIN TRACK BLOCK AT FORT ATKINSON

Wrecking Crew Was Called Out Yesterday Morning To Replace Six Derailed Freight Cars.

Six derailed freight cars blocked the main track at Ft. Atkinson yesterday morning and the Janesville wrecking crew was called out shortly before noon to clear up the track. The side track was left open, however so that there was no delay in the train schedule.

Conductor Quinn was in charge of the wrecking train with Engineer Garbutt in the engine cab, and George Jacob and men replaced the cars on the track. The damage was slight amounting only to tearing up the track. Some difficulty was experienced in replacing the cars, however, and it was found necessary to dig a ditch and tip one of the cars over to uncouple it.

NEW SMOKE STACKS AT ROUNDHOUSE ERECTED

Some Difficulty Was Experienced Yesterday However When Sections Fell While Hoisting.

Two new smoke stacks have been erected over the boiler room at the roundhouse and the final work of taking down the stacks was completed today. Some difficulty was experienced yesterday in hoisting one of the sections which fell several times before it could be placed. The first time it fell to the south and the second it crashed down on the roof of the shops with a deafening sound. No one was hurt either time although one of the workmen had a close call when the stack was hoisted under his feet by the falling shaft. He managed to crawl out of the way, however, and gave himself from falling some distance to the roof. The stacks were painted yesterday and the clearing away of the scaffolding was done today.

Conductor Frey was in charge of the Milwaukee Merchants and Manufacturers' special train which arrived in Janesville yesterday morning at 10:55. The train consisted of eleven cars and was double headed with Engineers Conklin and Leicht.

The following positions are now built: passenger runs 613 and 517, Chicago and Janesville, for engineer and fireman; runs 578 and 585, Harbacco and Janesville, for an engineer in place of Engineer Conklin; and a fireman is wanted for extra passenger work in place of Fireman Wood.

Inventory at the roundhouse at South Janesville will be completed today. Storekeeper J. P. Mason has finished the work within about a week's time.

Engineer Guy Cole and Fireman Dooley took engine 1212 to Harvard this morning. Conductor Kahn came up from Harvard to take charge.

Fireman Ashley worked yesterday on the "Sunset Limited".

Fireman Hackshaw was a visitor in Chicago yesterday.

Engineer Cole and Fireman Walters were engaged yesterday in breaking in engine 1216, which is just out of the shops after undergoing general repairs.

Engineer Garbutt is laying off and is being relieved on the Watertown switch run by Engineer Storm. Fireman Hackshaw was on duty on this run today.

Switchman Clough is laying off and is being relieved by Ed. Horn on the 10:10 o'clock job. McTaggart is in Horn's place.

Fireman Bier was on duty on the switch engine yesterday.

NEW FOREMAN TOOK POSITION YESTERDAY

Charles Swan, Who Has Been Transferred From Ladd, Illinois, Assumed Duties As Roundhouse Foreman.

Charles Swan, who has been transferred from Ladd, Ill., to Janesville, took up his duties as roundhouse foreman yesterday. Mr. Swan has held a like position at Ladd for a period of about three years, and was well liked there. District Master Mechanics W. Alexander was here today going over the roundhouse, and Mr. Swan has been a visitor at the local shops several times previous to his assignment here and is known by a number of the men.

Conductor Freeman was in charge of the wrecking train which went out of town Monday evening to replace the cars which were derailed on the Albany branch. Engineer Smith and Fireman Lavasa composed the engine crew. Car foreman Abendroth and men did the work of replacing the derailed freight cars.

Engineer Mahoney has returned from Beloit, where he relieved Engineer Gilbert on switch engine 1059.

Engineer Dowle and Fireman Pfeiffer took train 162 out at 11:15 this morning.

Will-o'-the-Wisp.

Such extraordinary lights as you mention are occasionally to be seen arising from the earth, and have excited curiosity in all ages. They appear to be of a phosphorescent character, caused by chemical changes underground, due to the decomposition of some organic substances. The so-called "Will-o'-the-Wisp" is of a similar nature. Probably its occurrence in winter is due to the cracking of the soil, permitting the escape of the gases. The fact that these lights appear should be a warning against the use of water derived from the vicinity of such appearances.

LOAN BAND TALKS OF MISSION AND BRIDES

Congregational Society Have June Meeting and Hear About Missionaries and Members Who Are to Wed.

The Loan Band of the First Congregational Church held their June meeting last evening in the parlors of the church. Tea was served at 6:15, with Mrs. Walter Rice and Mrs. P. S. Peterson hostesses. The program following consisted of an address by Mrs. E. P. Wood, of Maywood, Ill., which was much enjoyed. Vocal solo by Mr. Len Mathews. Sketches of the missionaries and educational institutions now supported by the young ladies of the W. B. M. I. were given by Mrs. Wm. Menzies, Miss Edwards, Miss Bradley and Miss Rogers.

The second part of the program was given in honor of those members of the Loan Band, who are soon to become brides. Miss Mary Beaton, Miss Mabel Charlton, Miss Jennie Chalmers, Miss Jessie Spoon, Miss Maud Spoon and Miss Frances Schlegel. As an appropriate introductory number Miss Pond played Mendelssohn's Wedding March. The subject was further explained by the bright recitation of Mrs. Fred Sutherland, using stereopticon views of the guests, as they appeared in their boyhood days. The closing number was given by the Junior choir, who sang the Spring Song.

ANNUAL BANQUET OF JANESVILLE ALUMNI

Of the High School Will Be Prepared by Graduates From Miss Coleman's Domestic Science Classes.

Plans for the annual banquet of the alumni of the Janesville high school are fast being completed. It is announced today that the feast which will be served Friday evening, June 16th, at the high school building, will be prepared by the alumni who were members of Miss Coleman's domestic science classes. The exact composition of the menu has not been given out but when the preparation is in such expert hands there need be no fear but that it will be first class.

There has been a change made in the time of the banquet from six o'clock in the evening to seven o'clock for the accommodation of a larger number of the alumni. The banquet will also be furnished at fifty cents a plate instead of seventy-five.

The program is nearly all arranged at present and the affair promises to be one of the most successful in a number of years.

Cleveland, Ohio, June 7.—Phil Knight acceptably filled the position of a punching bag in his ten-round bout with Puckey McFarland at the Eagles' club. He had his face chopped into raw beef. Knight stayed the ten rounds, but beyond giving him credit for his willingness to act as human target there was nothing else in his favor.

Little Bed-Time Tales By EDITH HAVENS

The Sky Fairy

"Good night, dear sun," she murmurs, and she turns and floats lightly away through the dusk of the coming night.

As she travels along she pauses at the door of each little star in the heavens and calls softly: "Come out, come out." And then from each little sky house there appears a silver star which flashes out a good evening to you little folks down here on the earth. Jupiter, Venus and Saturn all are there, and together the millions of stars wave their tiny night lanterns to each other in a salute of greeting.

The little sky fairy laughs happily, and the heart of that long stretch of eastern hills there pokes into view the good-natured face of the jolly moon.

Away to some big cloud flies the good fairy, where soon she falls asleep just to the palest yellow, while the purple fade—fade away into that wonderful for all the world like you do, soft gray.

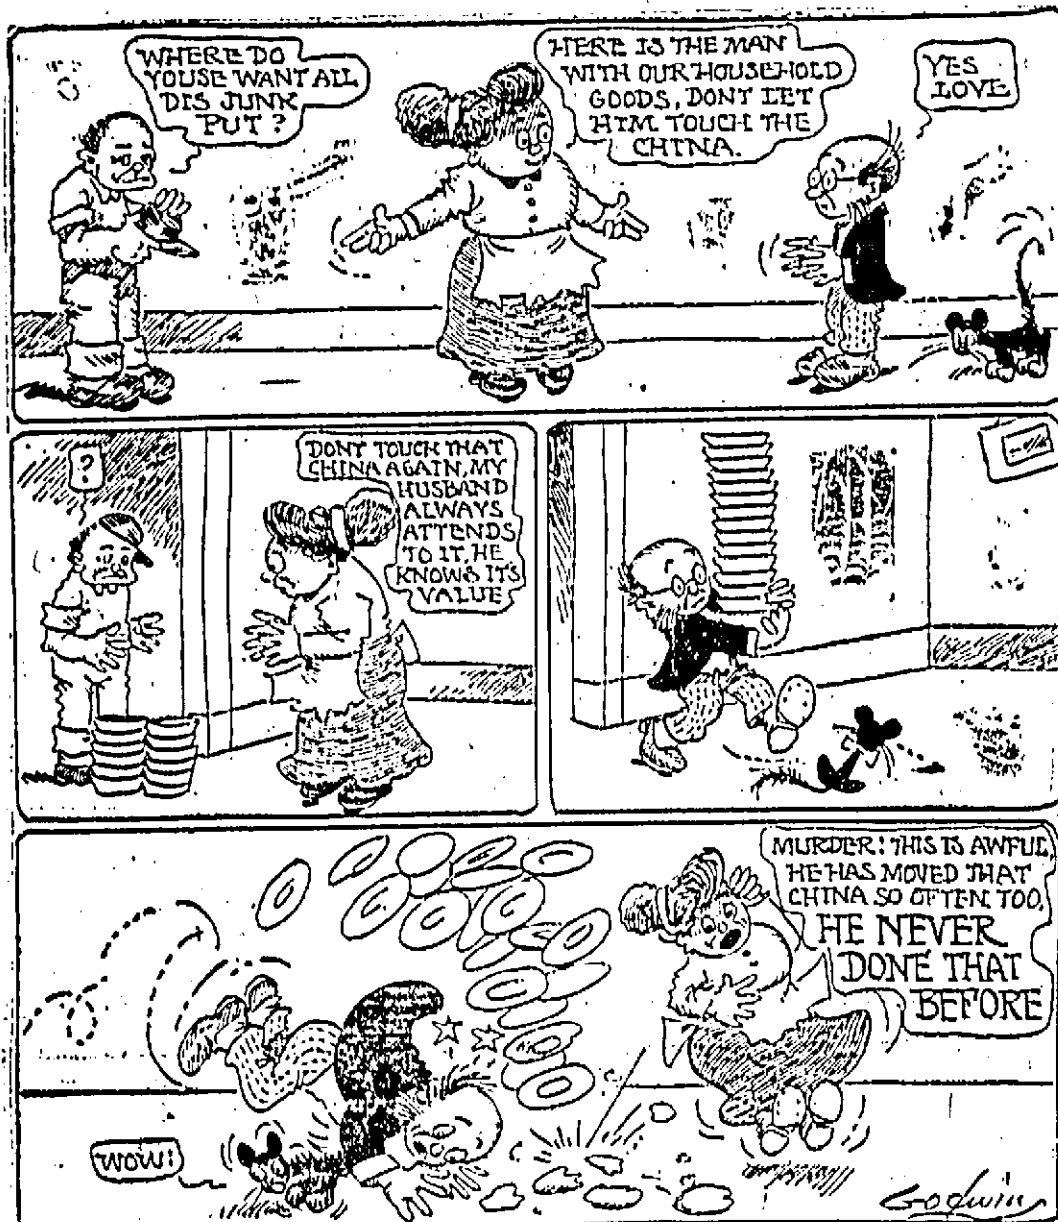

WOULD you like to hear about the good fairy who lives in the sky? Her name is Beautiful, and at night she sleeps on the bosom of some soft, white cloud.

Now, in the daytime this little fairy is constantly at work, and all of the time she is creating something more beautiful and lovely for the people who live down here on the great earth.

Each night when the tired sun sinks to rest behind the western hills, she takes her magic brush, and, flying to the western part of the sky paints beautiful. All the time the little fairy is singing the little night song—much the turning to the east, she calls softly: "Already, dear moon, already."

Then she stands off a short ways and sleeper, sinks lower and lower, and finally it dips altogether out of sight.

lo! the wonderful colors undergo a marvelous change. The red slowly and the fire colors become like a faint, fades to a most delicate pink, the gold tain mist in the afterglow. Then they fade, while the purple fade—fade away into that wonderful for all the world like you do, soft gray.

HE NEVER DONE THAT BEFORE.

Meet to Discuss Church Troubles

Bridford, Me., June 7.—Delegates representing French speaking Catholics of New England and portions of Canada assembled in convention here today to discuss the troubles growing out of the action of Bishop Walsh of Portland in excommunicating a number of prominent laymen as a result of a dispute over the management of church property. In accordance with the provisions of the "Corporation Sole," or law governing the management of religious properties, Bishop Walsh has denied the laity the right of representation in the management of the church property. His attitude in the matter has met with strong reprobation on the part of the lay members in the French Parishes, which are numerous through this section. The Protestants declare they will carry the dispute to Rome and, failing to get redress there, they will ask the civil courts to order an accounting of the church property in the Portland diocese.

Brave Woman Honored.

For her gallantry in saving the life of a patient at Hanwell asylum, King George has conferred a medal on Nurse Ildna Wolsey. Some time ago a female patient at the asylum, while exercising in one of the airing courts, climbed over the wire covering of one of the fire escape staircases, and reaching a roof ran along the narrow gutterway at the edge of it for some 70 feet. Nurse Wolsey followed her, making her way by leaning with one hand against the sloping roof, and reaching the patient, held her, at great personal risk, until ropes and ladders were procured and she was lowered to safety.

Or It Would Wait Long.

This work of helping the world forward happily does not wait to be done by perfect men.—George Eliot.

Apples in British Markets.

The apple is the most important fruit coming to the British market. American apples are very popular, led by such varieties as the Newtown Pippin and the Hood River. The only objection urged is that of size. The most popular sizes are those ranging from 120 to 150 a crate, whereas some of the arrivals from Oregon and California run as large as 70 or 80 a crate. The English retail trade does not want the extra large apple. Fruit is sold by the pound, and the number of a fruit that can be contained in a fixed weight plays a large part in its sale.

GO IN FOR DAIRYING

"Stanley Country"

The cut-over Hardwood Lands in the Stanley Country have all the natural conditions necessary for successful dairying, such as climate, soil, pure water and an abundance of clover and wild grasses. When the timber is cut, the clover becomes King and creates pasture unsurpassed anywhere, thus paying for the expense of preparing the soil for the raising of small grains, etc. Wisconsin has over one thousand creameries and nearly two thousand cheese factories, which is one-half of the creameries and one-sixth of the cheese factories in the whole United States.

THE STUMP PROBLEM IS NOW SOLVED

This was formerly the one obstacle that the new settler in Wisconsin had to contend with. What drainage and irrigation did for the south and west, the powerful land clearing machines, clearing from three to five acres a day, will do for the cut-over lands in Wisconsin.

Why go thousands of miles away from your old home and settle on the expensive lands of the west and south when good fertile lands can be had at $15.00 per acre in the high priced communities within a few hours' ride from the world's best markets. Call and see me or write for descriptive folder.

COUNCIL DISCUSSED IMPORTANT MATTERS

City Fathers of Edgerton Had Much
Business to Consider But Accomplished Little.

(Special to this Gazette.)
Edgerton, Wis., June 7.—Last night was the time of the regular meeting of the common council and as much important business has been pending for some time, but little was accomplished, although a full quorum was present. However, some matters pertaining to the city were acted upon and matters of more importance still hung fire.

The council last night ordered water mains laid on Hollis street, Stoughton road and Washington street. Specifications also were ordered made for a main on Blaine street.

A petition for extension of fire limits was also presented but action thereon was deferred until the next regular meeting.

Class Play.
Royal hall last night was filled to overflowing, the attraction being the class play of the graduating class of the Edgerton high school, entitled "At the End of the Rainbow." The play was ably rendered and the parts were well sustained, much to the credit of the class. The large audience present was well pleased with the rendition of the play.

Personal.
Rev. Martens, wife and child of Madison spent the day in the city yesterday, guests of Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Spillman.

Miss Tiel Cons departed yesterday afternoon for her home in Sparta after spending the winter here.
Mrs. G. Amundson and son, Alvin, left this morning for the west, the former going to Vlamna, S. D., on a visit of a number of weeks, and the latter goes to Siasaton, where he has accepted a position in a meat market there.

Saved by Brass Helmet.
Brass helmets worn by English fire fighters occasionally prove useful. At a recent fire 14 tons of glass fell on one man's head and completely buried him and when he had been dug out down to his shoulders another shower of glass came down and buried him again. He was in a hospital for four months and glass was coming out of different parts of his body for six months afterward, but he is still one of the best men of his company.

Man's Purpose.
Not a man but is conscious of occasional hours that are full of promise; but his purposes are like these blossoms on the peach tree, of which there seems a strange overplus, since many bloom and few set.—Rev. N. D. Hills, Congregationalist, Brooklyn.

Cheerfulness.
Cheerfulness is a thing to be more profoundly grateful for than all that genius ever inspired or talent ever accomplished. Next best to natural, spontaneous cheerfulness is deliberate, intended and persistent cheerfulness, which we can create, can cultivate and can so foster and cherish that after a few years the world will never suspect that it was not an hereditary gift.—Helen Hunt Jackson.

How Long is Your Stride?
It has been estimated that the average length of a man's stride is 31½ inches, and that the distance an average traveler can cover at this rate is 7,168 yards an hour or 119 yards a minute. The number of strides would be 7,500 an hour or 125 a minute. The length of the stride in the various armies is as follows: United States, 30 inches; Germany, 31½ inches; Austria, 29½ inches; Italian, 29½ inches; French, 29½ inches; British, 30 inches.

The Thing Desirable.
So deport your life that when contemplating the future you will be thinking of glory instead of the grave.

These Grosbeaks Strayed.
For some time past Warren has been visited by a small flock of evening grosbeaks, a bird very rarely appearing east of the Mississippi river, says the Philadelphia Record. In fact only once before has its presence been recorded in Pennsylvania. In 1899 several of the northwestern counties, including Warren county, reported their presence during the previous December and remained until April 12; in one case a few remained till May 11, paired and apparently intended to remain all summer, when they were driven away by gunners, who killed or wounded several. The home of the birds is in the far northwest, from the Canadian Rockies east to Lake Superior, and at rare intervals still further east.

Boys' Home in Forest.
England had at least one tree-dweller during the past few months. This remarkable fact came to light the other day when a boy of thirteen, named Charles Brown, was charged at Stratford with being found sleeping out without proper control or guardianship. When asked where he usually slept the boy confessed that since June last he had made his home in Epping forest. "What?" exclaimed the magistrate, "sleeping in the forest all that time? You couldn't have slept there in the winter!" "Yes I did," came the prompt reply. "I climbed up the trees and slept among the branches." This plucky youngster, an orphan and friendless, has supported himself alone for months by selling papers.

Child Workers in Japan.
Dr. Kowada, member of the Japanese house of peers, says that more than two-fifths of the million factory hands are women and children. There are no laws to fear or evade, so mill owners are employing 70,000 under the age of fourteen, the work in match and tobacco factories being done by children, many of them under ten years of age. Girls are taken from the rural districts, placed in the factories, often to work late into the night, and fined and lashed if shop rules are broken. The parents are persuaded that work in the city is good for the children.

EVANSVILLE WOMEN OFF TO GREEN BAY

Delegates From Strong Chapter of Women's Relief Corps to Go to Encampment at Green Bay—Other Notes.

Evansville, June 6.—Mrs. Adell Ballard, Mrs. Winifred Allen and Mrs. Maria Lee, delegates from the local Woman's Relief Corps, and the president, Miss Corn E. Harris, will take their departure, Wednesday morning, for Green Bay, to attend the annual state convention of the Grand Army of the Republic and its auxiliary, the Woman's Relief Corps. Evansville Corps has been especially honored the past year, by having two of its members as state officers—Mrs. Adell Ballard being department aide, while Miss Harris has been serving a second year as department press correspondent and editor of "The Relief Corps News," the official organ of the state. The local Corps is in a most prosperous condition, nineteen new members having been initiated since the first of the year, and several others will join soon. Considerable has been done in the line of relief work and patriotic primers and other patriotic literature has been distributed among the schools in this vicinity, credit for which is due the patriotic instructor, Mrs. Jennie Slavson. Much "sunshine" in the way of flowers, fruit and grape juice has been carried to numerous sick rooms. Mrs. Martha Lee being the chairman of the committee, and has most faithfully performed her duties.

All executive work is in the hands of the chairman, Mrs. Helen O. Walton, and she has proved an efficient member in that work. A few weeks ago the department council requested each Corps to contribute ten cents per capita to complete the necessary fund for the erection of a hospital annex at the Wisconsin Veterans' home where there are over seven hundred soldiers and their wives or widows. The local Corps sent $8.00; the response was generous from the one hundred and fifty state Corps, and the erection of the building has already been commenced.

Tuesday evening a large number of the members gathered at the hall, the affair being in honor of their sister member, Mrs. Ed. Winter, who will leave in a few days for her home in Sioux Falls, South Dakota. Dainty refreshments were served and a very pleasant evening was enjoyed by all. Postal card showers were also given eight members whose birthdays occurred in May and June.

Lazy Samoans.
An Austrian naturalist, Dr. Recklizer, attempted some time ago to make a collection of Samoan fishes. He found it almost impossible to persuade the natives, who are so lazy that they seldom go fishing, to sell him any. An offer of gold tempted them no more than silver; they had caught their fish to eat them, and not them they did.

Tom Paine's Fireplace.
It has long been a mystery to the admirers of Thomas Paine as to what became of the fireplace in the Paine homestead at New Rochelle, N. Y., now known as the Devereaux house, which is situated in a beautiful park on North avenue of that city and maintained as a Huguenot memorial by the Huguenot association.

We have for several years carried on a painstaking search for this bit of household utility and have at last discovered the fireplace in the beautiful home of Walter Bell at Woodbury, Conn.; also this Franklin stove, used by the great champion of freedom, both of which are now treasured possessions of Mr. Bell, and may be seen by those interested in these relics.—Magazine of American History.

Insurance Against Rain.
The laws of outdoor life in England is the excessive rainfall. Shows, pageants, garden parties, regattas and fests of all kinds are to an uncommon degree at the mercy of the skies. No wonder that the English have finally elaborated a systematic scheme to provide indemnity for disappointment or loss caused by wet weather. The new plan, which is associated with Lloyd's underwriters, will first be tried at the resorts of the south and east coasts from May to October. You may insure against rain, to a certain fraction of an inch, on any single day; or against rain on more than two days during any one week; or, if planning a week-end party, against rain on four consecutive days.

YOUNG COUPLE WED LATELY AT PORTER

Miss Marie McCarthy of Porter United in Marriage With James Ludden of Janesville.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Porter, June 6.—June the month of brides and roses, was ushered in on a very pretty and pleasing manner by a wedding, which took place at St. Michaels Church in the town of Porter on Thursday, June 1, at 9:30 a. m., when Marie McCarthy of Porter, and James C. Ludden of Janesville, were united in marriage by Rev. Fr. J. E. Harlin of Edgerton, assisted by Rev. Father Fitzgerald of Evansville. The bride wore a gown of embroidered tulle and carried a bouquet of white roses.

Miss Jennie McCarthy, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid and carried a unity gown of white embroidery and carried pink roses. The groom was attended by his brother, Vincent Ludden and was attired in the conventional black. Lohengrin's wedding march was played by Miss Agnes Murphy of Edgerton, and James and Charles McCarthy, cousins of the bride, acted as ushers. The church was very prettily decorated for the occasion and the ceremony was attended by a large number of relatives and friends. After the ceremony the party repaired to the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. McCarthy, where a reception was held and an elaborate four course dinner was served to two hundred invited guests. The tables were decorated with roses, sweet peas, sinlax and ferns and the color scheme of green and white was carried out in decorating the home, making a very pretty setting for the festivities of the occasion. Among the guests present from out of town were Rev. Fr. J. E. Harlin, Mrs. Mary Downey, Miss Agnes Murphy, Miss Nora Condon, Dr. and Mrs. B. L. MEN'S BROTHERHOOD
AT BANQUET BOARD

Ladies Entertained at Final Meeting of Methodist Society in Church Parlors Last Night.

At the Methodist church last evening the members of the Men's Brotherhood held their annual Ladies' Night banquet, the final meeting of the season. One hundred and twenty-five guests were seated at the tables and a delicious repast was served. An informal program was given, which opened with an instrumental selection by the Sunday school orchestra. Stewart Richards rendered a delightful vocal solo and Miss Florence Welch gave a recital that was highly pleasing, responding to an encore. A quartet composed of the Messrs. Austin, Donnie, Collett and Austin sang, and the orchestra played another selection. The closing feature of the evening's program was given by Prof. William Vlyman of the high school, who recited a humorous selection. His number brought forth hearty applause and he was called back again.

Ellnor couldn't keep herself in hand while that raucous voice was thrust into her self-respect like a rusty file gripped as a pinhead. She fought for self-mastery, but the shock was too much for her determination. Dorothy's sisterly comforting only made her tears flow more freely. Her whole form quivered with sobs. Carson, still on his little journey around the room, came full within range of Blodgett's right-angled gaze. As he sensed the footman's expression he started violently and, stepping back swiftly, turned away in confusion. Not a muscle of Blodgett's other features moved, but his eyes seemed to reach for the detective.

Donnelly was rapidly recovering his place on the pedestal. Hands writhed in pockets, he rocked on his heels and looked at Ellnor piercingly with his little eyes. The girl, in an interval between sobs, raised her head and saw that gaze. A slow flush swept her face. She detached herself gently from little Miss March, and lifting that graceful head of hers higher, ever higher, faced the slouch with composure as startling as had been her loss of control.

"If you have anything more to ask, sir," she said in a low tone, "I will try to answer."

"Thank!" came the curt reply. "I knew you'd come around. You see, Miss Ellnor—"

"Miss Holcomb!" burst from Sands in a thunder tone. "Hut-to-mum—you understand—Miss Holcomb." Donnelly pretended not to notice the interruption, but he did not address Ellnor by her first name again. But Carson seemed as perturbed as had been under the malignant gaze of the motionless Blodgett.

"What were you doing in Malden Lane the other day?" asked Donnelly, sharply.

"I was not in Malden Lane. I haven't been downtown in weeks. The last time I went south of the shopping district was more than a month ago."

"That is true," said Mrs. Missioner hurriedly. "Miss Holcomb went to the Battery Trust company for me."

"Much obliged, ma'am," Donnelly was learning to show more deference to the widow. Carson had whispered to him something of her social importance. Yes, Carson, although he was only a neutral tint in the human color scheme, knew a few things.

"Was that the day you took the diamonds to Tiffany's?" queried the big detective quickly. "To have one of the small stones made tighter, you know."

Miss Holcomb's disdain had given place to dull wonder. Where had the man got his misinformation? Could it be he really thought—but, no, it was impossible. She felt as if something suffocating was closing about her. She lifted one hand to her throat to force back the sobs that would come.

"I am completely confused by your questions," she stammered. "I do not know how to answer. What you say is so strange." She looked at the others with a world of appeal in those gray eyes. Astonishment, sympathy, infection, cynicism, mutely replied. Stretching both hands toward Mrs. Missioner, advancing with faltering steps, the victim of the detective's persecution cried: "Mrs. Missioner, is it possible you can think—do you even imagine—I—oh, with a swift turn to Miss March, "Dorothy, Dorothy!"

To the credit of little Miss March be it remembered she met Ellnor's second appeal with undiminished tenderness. Mrs. Missioner, too, was kind, but her gentle "No, Ellnor," was not as reassuring as the loving pats Dorothy squandered on the bent shoulders of the distressed girl. Sands aware in his thoughts, his big fingers bent a gold pinholder into wavy lines. Ranscombe, with alternate fingertips, traced lines in his palms. Griswold turned his cigarette round and round with agile fingers and thumb. Blodgett's eyes seemed to lunge at the detective.

"I guess Miss Holcomb isn't ready to tell all she knows—yet," said Donnelly meaningly. "While we're waiting for her to steady her nerves, nelly, rolling the fifty year-old between finger and thumb. "You won't mind if I peep in the paper, young lady? Of course you won't. And this is only a—say, what the mischief is it? Oh, glory!"

Even Carson was startled into an echoing "Oh!" and the three women almost screamed. For, nestling in the folds of the tissue, its facets twinkling in the instant green glow of the vacuum lights, flashed a diamond—an unmistakable diamond—which Mrs. Missioner and Dorothy and Ellnor recognized as one of the lesser gems from the Maharajah necklace—much smaller than the Maharajah diamond, but twice the size of an ordinary stone. And it was a diamond even a novice could tell was genuine!

All the blood left Ellnor's face. The muscles of her throat leaped and knotted as if she were strangling. She swayed for a moment, then took a long step toward the detective and stood trembling, covering her face with quivering hands. Donnelly, holding the diamond to the light, was about to speak—in what words, what manner, one can guess. But the misery in the girl's attitude struck the triumphant grin from his face, and there was momentary compassion in the tone in which he said:

"We'd better go back to the library, I guess. Will you go with my sister, partner, Miss Holcomb?"

Carson's advance to the secretary's side was checked by the violence with which she whirled toward Mrs. Missioner, again with outstretched hands. This time the widow was slower in meeting the appeal. She was stunned by the detective's discovery. All the finer sensibilities of her womanhood were benumbed. Astonishment, large and compelling, was all she could feel for the moment. Still, she took Ellnor's imploring hands in hers and stood motionless, listening to the girl's passionate entreaty not to believe the evidence of her eyes, not to believe her kindness could be out-gauged in such a way, not to believe that Ellnor for all the jewels in the mines of the world could be tempted from the high honor in which she had been reared. Clamping the younger woman's locked fingers in her own soft palm, she slipped her arm about Ellnor's waist and walked with her to the lift. Dorothy, crying almost childishly, controlled her voice once or twice long enough to beg Ellnor not to give way to such torturing emotion.

But Ellnor Holcomb, shaking, sobbing, wildly beseeching, was oblivious to the silent watchfulness of the central office men, the covert glances from Blodgett's mask-like countenance, the amazed stare of the liveried youth in the elevator. All the way to the room in which Sands and Griswold and Ranscombe waited, all the way across the old English library to the ruddy room before the fireplace, she continued her entreaty.

"It is better to let them search thoroughly," said Ellnor. "Since this is considered necessary, I wish it to be made complete. Please do not interfere with them." She handed to Carson a small silver keyring. He passed it to his mate, and Donnelly's enjoyment of the situation increased by leaps and bounds. No single key on the tiny ring escaped use of his hands. He unlocked boxes, a dressing case and other places of possible concealment. His method would have drawn a derisive smile from Chief of Detectives Manning. But Manning was far downtown in Mulberry street, and could not know the course his subordinates were pursuing.

From a drawer in Ellnor's Chippendale secretary Donnelly took a box of rare lacquer and fitted a key to it. He stopped to gaze searchingly at Miss Holcomb for a few minutes, then he unlocked the box.

"I hate to pry into any young lady's little keep-sakes," he said in a ponderously patronizing manner, "but, as Miss Holcomb hasn't been to Malden Lane in such a long time, I know she won't object. Now, this little box, of course, contains nothing but trinkets or odds and ends—love letters, maybe." Ellnor's heart sickened at the leer in his face. She turned her eyes to Dorothy's loving little face, and clung to the debutante's hand. Donnelly, fumbling with the key for awhile opened the lacquered box.

"Just what I said, you see," he exclaimed. "Nothing but trinkets and other little souvenirs—huh!—of old romances, perhaps. Eh, it's great to be a summer girl, Miss Holcomb. If only you had jewels like Mrs. Missioner's, you'd shine with the best of them. Gee, but that must be a beauty, that necklace, if the imitation is so pretty."

He stirred the contents of the box idly. Nothing else remained to be searched. He had ransacked the intimate sanctity of the girl's room. He felt baffled and sorely irritated. At the thought of failure, he thrust his fingers into the box with such violence that everything it held fell to the floor. Carson stooped to pick up the scattered jewelry, placing it in Donnelly's hand to be returned to the box. After recovering several bits of jewelry he laid in his big colleague's greedy clutch a small, round object wrapped in silk tissue.

"Hello, what's that?" exclaimed Donnelly, rolling the fifty year-old between finger and thumb. "You won't mind if I peep in the paper, young lady? Of course you won't. And this is only a—say, what the mischief is it? Oh, glory!"

Greatest Woman in All History. "Who may rightly be said to be the greatest woman in history? The answer that was awarded the prize was this: 'The wife of a man of moderate means, who does her own cooking, washing and ironing, brings up a family of girls and boys to be useful members of society, and finds time for her own intellectual improvement—the greatest woman in all history.'—Horton Traveler.

Relics of the Stone Age. During excavations conducted near Willendorf, on the Danube, by the prehistoric section of the Austrian Natural History museum, a chalk figurine, 11 centimeters high, has been discovered in a stratum containing instruments and weapons characteristic of the stone age. The figurine shows traces of having been painted and represents a female figure with remarkable precision of artistic execution.

Must Be Some Good Reason. "Why is this called an 'intelligence' office?" queried the dame who was hunting for a cook and had been unable to find one. The man behind the desk consulted his office book. "Madam," he said, "you're the nine hundred and seventy-ninth person that has asked that question, and this is the nine hundred and seventy-ninth time I have answered, 'I don't know.'"

GOV. DIX OF NEW YORK AND HIS AIDE, AS THEY ENTERED THE NEW YORK PUBLIC LIBRARY DEDICATION ON TUESDAY, MAY 23.
Gov. Dix, in the presence of President Taft, Mayor Gaynor, John Bigelow, Jos. H. Choate and other notables, gave a stirring address. Twelve thousand people stood in line and moved, step by step, slowly, for an hour and a half viewing the immense collection of books.
A Put-Up Job.
Hamilton Webster called "Ham" (for short), had just been elected sheriff of a county in one of the western states. He had received strict orders to keep no prisoner in solitary confinement. One evening he found him self in possession of but two prisoners, one of whom escaped during the night. The next morning he opened the cell of the one remaining, a man arrested for horse stealing, and proceeded to kick him out, remarking: "Get out of here, you piece of—!"
Why?
"Do you believe the truth should be spoken at all times?" "No. When your wife comes home with a new hat and wants to know whether you think it is becoming, why tell her that it isn't, even if it makes her look like a fright?"
Usual Fate of Inventors.
Eliza Howe, a Frankfurt tailor, has recently died. Some sixteen years ago Howe blazed the comet of a season. He had invented a bullet proof cuirass, and for a time he was one of the best-known men in Europe. He had faith in his invention, which was composed of steel casing with a packing inside. Howe, protected with his cuirass, was told by a Paris contemporary—but this, we think, is a little imagination—submitted himself as a target for the fire of a squadron of soldiers and came out of the trial unscathed, although various deadly rifles were used. For some reason his invention was not received with favor by the German war department, and then Howe went to Italy, where he achieved, as we read, "in memo success at least to some innocuous." Howe has died in poverty.

WITH HER SWEET HELP
ADDISON WETMORE FINALLY IS EMBOLDENED TO ASK.
But His Question Is Not Exactly the One the Young Lady Had Been Expecting for Nearly Three Years.
Miss Dorrington felt a delightful flutter in the vicinity of her heart. Addison Wetmore seemed to be nervous and eager. It was clear that he had something on his mind. He picked up one of the six best sellers and glanced for a moment at one of the illustrations, then threw the book aside and drew a deep sigh, gazing earnestly at his pretty companion.
"What has come over you this evening?" she asked. "You seem to be awfully nervous."
He crossed to the baby grand and, leaning upon it, gazed down into the beautiful girl's deep, dark eyes. There was in his look an earnestness that she had never seen there before and suddenly she realized that it was to be perhaps the most thrilling moment of her life.
"We have known each other a long time, haven't we, Shirley?" he replied in tones that were tense with emotion.
"Yes," she admitted, permitting her pretty slim fingers to fall from the ivory keys and modestly avoiding his eager gaze, "it is nearly three years."
"You have had a chance in that time to get to know me pretty well, haven't you? I have always tried to be a perfect gentleman when I was with you, haven't I?"
"Yes, I have never seen you do anything to be ashamed of."
"Has your father ever objected to our friendship?"
"No, father has always liked you very much. He has often said he didn't think you were one of those young men who thought their lives would be wasted unless they squandered their money on women who smoked cigarettes and drank wine in public places."
"I'm glad to hear he has such a good opinion of me. There's something I want to ask you."
"Is there?"
"Yes. It's something very important."
"The folks have all gone out. We are alone here."
He took one of her soft hands in his and she looked up at him with sweet, girlish innocence.
"It is something I have been thinking of for several days."
"What is it, Addison?"
"I hardly know how to say it."
"But I can't say it for you, can I?"
"No, of course not. You are sure your father likes me?"
"Yes, he couldn't think more of you if you were his son."
"Well, I want to borrow $50. Do you think he would let me have it?"
"I don't know," she replied, drawing her hand from his. "If you wish me to do so I'll ask him at breakfast tomorrow morning. If you don't hear from me you will know that he has refused. Dear me! How late it is. I will be glad to let you have a nickel if you need our fare to get home."

One-Third of a Wife.
Before a crowded, fashionable in intensely-interested audience, assembled in the Philharmonic hall, Liverpool, some time ago, Dr. Sven Medlin, the distinguished Swedish explorer, imparted much interesting information regarding his recent expedition into Tibet.
A few sentences were devoted to the marriage laws of the Tibetans. It was the custom for a woman to have two or three, or even more, brothers as her husbands. Three brothers would thus have one-third of a wife each—which ought to be quite sufficient, for the women were extremely ugly. When the eldest of the brothers chose a wife the others had to agree.
And this was a remarkable thing. In European countries it was the custom to ask a father how many children he had got; in Tibet it was the custom to ask the children, "How many fathers have you got?"
And the answer might be, "I have three—my great father, my middle father, and my little father."
In Defense of the Primrose.
Poisonous or not, the primrose was largely consumed by our forefathers, who endowed it with a variety of medicinal properties. The flowers sown in vinegar were applied externally for the king's evil, and boiled in wine were taken internally for "all diseases of the breast and lungs," and one famous London practitioner also prescribed the primrose boiled as a strengthening diet for convalescents. As late as 1837 the primrose could be found in English dispensaries as a sedative. But, apart from its consumption by invalids, the primrose had its place in the bill of fare, and primrose pastry, made of dough and the flowers chopped up fine and mixed with sugar, was a common dish in Lancashire.—London Chronicle.

And Mother Is Out.
He—Would you scream if I kissed you?
She—Yes, of course I would.
(Silence.)
She—George?
He—Yes; what is it?
She—Father's dead.
(Tableau) — Pennsylvania Punch Bowl.

Wide Awake Villages.
It has remained for the town and village improvement associations to teach us what it means to have yards that are attractive from curbstone to alley. They have educated children to have a proper regard not only for the premises on which they live, but for their share in beautifying the public school grounds teaching them that when they deface its walls, break windows, pull up its flowers and destroy its trees they are despoiling their own property, a very foolish thing to do, to say the least.

HERE IS THE CHANCE TO DO GOOD WORK
Read Article and Sign the Blank and Join the Band Boosters' Club.
The re-organization of the Bower City Band is a matter in which the citizens generally are deeply interested and the success of this musical organization largely depends upon the support given it by the people of Janesville. It starts out under flying colors under the leadership of Mr. St. L. Buchanan, a gentleman who has had wide experience and who has the splendid Edgerton band as an illustration of what can be done under proper guidance.
The personnel of the Bower City Band includes musicians of the highest grade, men who are thoroughly interested in band work and it will not be long before this organization takes its place among the leading musical aggregations in the state.
The citizens of Janesville can assist materially in encouraging efficiency in this line of musical perfection by making it possible to hold weekly band concerts in the Court House Park during the summer season through their financial assistance and a statement that they desire such concerts.
The plan is, beginning July 1st to hold weekly concerts for ten weeks. A fund of $100 must be secured to cover the expense of these events and those who enjoy music, those who have been in the habit of going to the Court House Park to listen to the music in the past should be willing to express themselves and to also contribute whatever they feel they can.
Won't you please fill out the enclosed coupon and send it to Frank E. Lane, secretary of the Industrial and Commercial club, at once so that it may be determined as to whether further efforts should be expended in completing final arrangements?
